More True Lies
Synopsis

A man is thrown in jail for picking up a rope. A student earns one hundred points on his math and history tests, yet fails both classes. A spider saves a fugitive from a legion of warriors. A farmer buys a cow, a horse, and a donkey, all with a single ear of corn.... Each of the eighteen stories in this book is true, technically. But each is also a lie. In his second collection of “true lies” from around the world, George Shannon challenges young readers to uncover the whole truth. But be careful: a word with more than one meaning can obscure the facts. And a hidden detail can mean the difference between honesty and a twisted truth that is, in its essence, a lie. Can you tell the difference? Can you discover: “What’s the truth, the whole truth? And where’s the lie?”

Book Information

File Size: 2014 KB
Print Length: 64 pages
Publisher: Greenwillow Books; 1st edition (December 14, 2010)
Publication Date: December 17, 2010
Sold by: Digital Services LLC
Language: English
ASIN: B003YCOOIK
Text-to-Speech: Enabled
X-Ray: Not Enabled
Word Wise: Enabled
Lending: Not Enabled
Enhanced Typesetting: Not Enabled

Best Sellers Rank: #1,461,185 Paid in Kindle Store (See Top 100 Paid in Kindle Store) #78 in Books > Children’s Books > Fairy Tales, Folk Tales & Myths > Collections #83 in Kindle Store > Kindle eBooks > Children’s eBooks > Activities, Crafts & Games > Games > Puzzles #746 in Kindle Store > Kindle eBooks > Nonfiction > Children’s Nonfiction > Sports & Activities > Games

Customer Reviews

Normally, people take “word play” to mean puns. This 64-page book features 18 tales from far corners of the earth—Japan, and the Middle East, China, France and Serbia, India and Africa—offering a different kind of word play. In each one, a central character says something that is at once the truth and a lie. The last story, for example, tells of four boys in Suriname two of whom bragged that their respective fathers were the best traders in town. The third, however, smiled and said that his father had them beat and the fourth boy agreed: He had with one ear of corn purchased a cow, a horse and a donkey. The father had indeed started with one ear of corn, and had indeed purchased a cow, a horse and a donkey—but not all at once, as the other boys supposed. Rather, he had planted the corn ear, sold his crop, bought a cow, sold it and bought a horse and sold it and bought a donkey. Similarly, another tale speaks of a poet named Mutanabbi who passed by Zubeida's house one day and decided to return that evening to propose that they be married. Halfway home, he encountered a handsome young man who was on his way to see Zubeida, "the most beautiful woman in the city," whom he also wanted to marry. Mutanabbi was afraid of losing his chance, so he told the young man that he had just moments ago seen Zubeida kissing a wealthy man. The young man left, feeling lost. After learning that Mutanabbi had married Zubeida, he accused the former of lying. After all, if Zubeida had really kissed a wealthy man, why would she have chosen Mutanabbi? Why, the wealthy man she kissed was her father, of course. Another story features a Muslim holy man on the island of Celebes, who found a dark cave and crawled inside to escape from warring enemies.

Download to continue reading...

Arming Yourself Against Gun Control Lies

Dmca